THIS YEAR

As an athlete at Regis, you must remember that you are always representing your school, but more importantly, always represent yourself; always be you.

-Debbie Dreiling

People matter, not things. The people you meet and become friends with are what you should hold close to your heart, rather than surrounding yourself with possessions and pretending that you are happy.

A Letter From the Editor

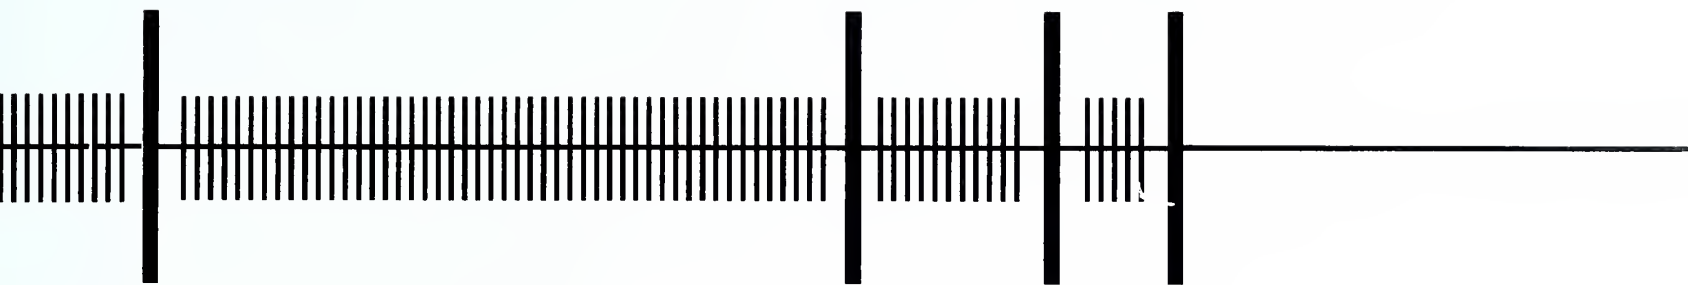

As time progresses, things change, hence the unique format for the 1993 Ranger. The staff and I decided to represent this year in chronological order as to recognize the changes that occurred within us. We appreciate your continued support and we hope you enjoy the memories of 1993 as presented in this book.

Sincerely,

Sarah Barnes

*Youth is not entirely a time of life; it is a state of mind.
Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years.
People grow old by deserting their ideals. You are as young as your faith,
as old as your doubt; as young as
your self-confidence,
as old as your fear;
as young as your hope, as old as your despair.*

Leadership Retreat

WHO:

115 student leaders from all campus leadership programs

WHAT:

All campus Leadership Retreat

WHEN:

The weekend of August 15th

WHERE:

Singing River Ranch, Evergreen

◆ Due to the lack of bell boys, the retreaters were forced to carry their luggage to the exquisite hotel.

◆ Bryan Steffen gives his little buddy a free ride.

◆ Mike Haas demonstrates his ability to revive the hoola-hoop to 50's fad status.

◆ Dr. Hill-Smith suggests ways for Regis' leaders to work together.

◆ Daphne Reitz chases Mike Dean, tight-end.

Orientation

WHO:

400 New Regis Students including: 309 new freshmen and 91 new transfer students

WHAT:

Orientation Week; a week of meeting people and making new friends

WHEN:

the week of August 21

WHERE:

all over the Regis University campus, especially the quad

◆ S.A.I.N.T.S. , students assisting incoming new and transfer students, were responsible for welcoming new students to the campus.

◆ S.A.I.N.T.S. Marie Weiseth, Jason Maroney, and Bryan Steffen give directions on how to play "heads up, sevens up."

◆ Freshmen and transfer students gather in the quad to meet each other and "play fair."

Campus Life

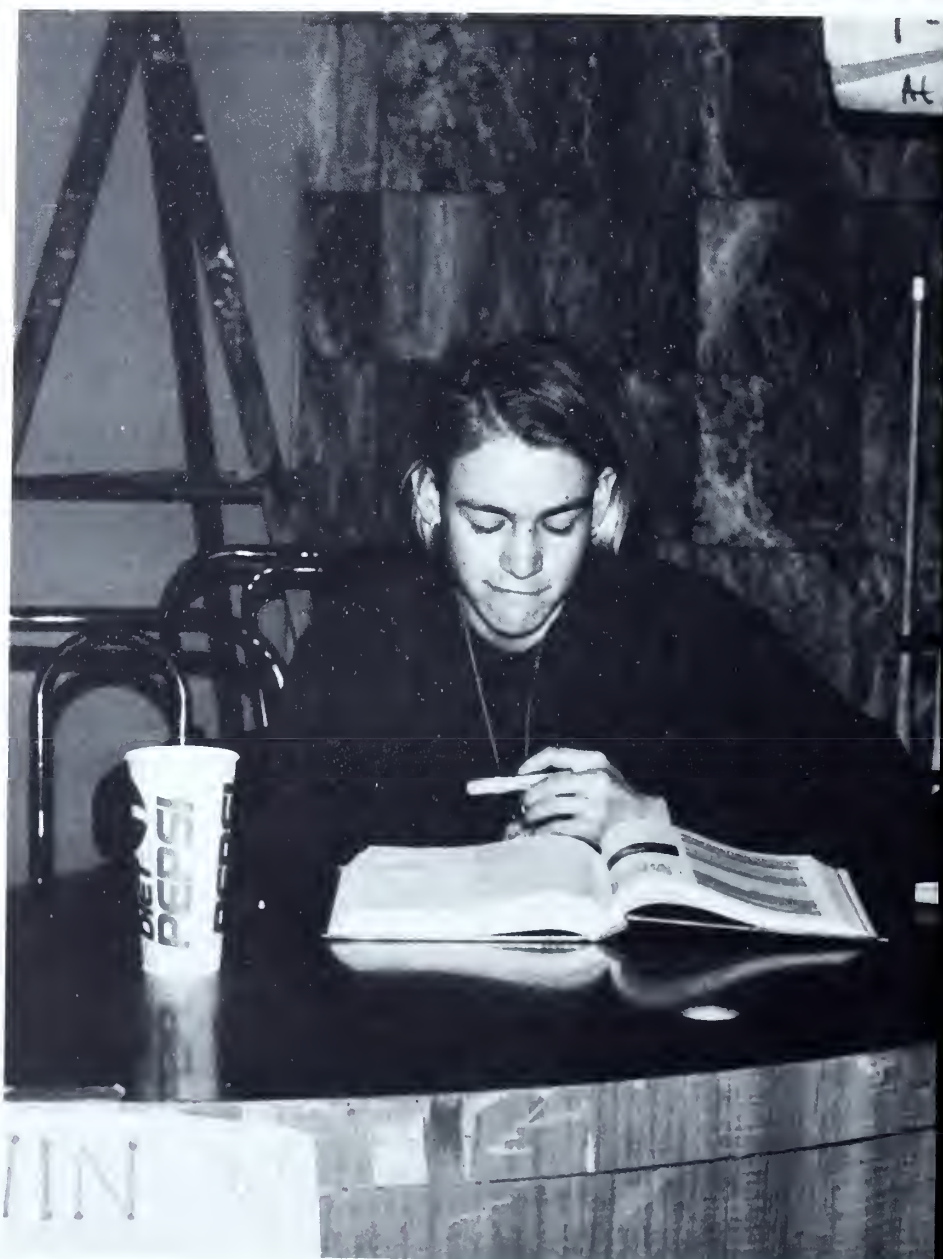

◆ The Campus Life office often becomes too close for comfort, especially when workstudies sleep there.

◆ Jason Sauer studies hard because he knows, "Time wasted is existence, used, is life."

-Young

Campus Life consists of the Executive Board, General Assembly, Residence Assistants, the Program Activities Council, Peer Support Assistants, Intramurals, Hall Governing Board and other such clubs or organizations on campus. Campus Life advises, manages and maintains student life. It also serves as a streamline of information for Regis activities. All signs and announcements must go through and be approved by Campus Life. Campus Life is available for the students to let them know when and what goes on at Regis.

◆ That's not Debbie Selle! It's Bill Dupey trying to fill her shoes.

◆ Director of Campus Life Jim McCormick is always willing to help with a smile.

Resident Assistants

◆ R.A. Tom Reinhardt relaxes on his furniture which was relocated to the West Hall lobby.

◆ The Residence Life staff from DeSmet Hall takes a break to show the latest in fashion.

The residence halls at Regis University are student run. Each hall has a Senior Resident Director, an Assistant Resident Director, and several Resident Assistants. These students are in charge of maintaining the hall, implementing programs, projects and activities, and assisting the residents in the hall community.

The R.As hold weekly meetings that provide students with time to raise questions and concerns about residence hall life. The R.As allow students to become actively involved in hall life by providing them with numerous hall activities.

◆ Jack Patterson shows his true feelings towards an unknown resident in his hall.

The 1992 Summer Olympics was a time of excitement, great accomplishments and disappointments, but most of all the Summer Olympics of 1992 was a time of victory: dreams came true. Though not every participant walked away with a medal in hand, they all were winners. Champions and their fans and supporters from all around the world followed their life-long goals to Barcelona. Each supporter cheered for their world champions in such events as swimming, diving, track & field, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics and more. Between Jackie Joyner-Kersey with her and the ever faithful with their numerous Summer Olympics thing but memories with the victories and defeats. One un- included Mark 200m. medal- tured a tendon at heptathlon gold- medaled Dream Team- ous wins, the 1992 could not be any- rable. However, there also came a fortunate defeat- Witherspoon, a hopeful, who rup- the 30 meter mark. However, his determination paid off as he finished the race with the help of his father who ran from the stands to help his crying son. This was an unforgettable moment for millions of people around the world. Although some participants did not take home a medal from the Summer Olympics, all the athletes left with fond and vivid memories they will always hold close to their hearts.

America needs to recycle. And America also needs to use recycled paper. Recycling has produced vast supplies of paper, glass and other reusable trash, but not enough demand. A business alliance for the National Recycling Coalition is campaigning to encourage small and large businesses to commit themselves to buy recycled products.

Pulverizing south Florida with 140 mph winds, Hurricane Andrew blasted an area 30 to 40 miles wide, leaving nothing but chaos, destruction and death. Andrew crashed onto the Florida on August 24, 1992; a natural display of fierceness not seen since 1926. Leveling business, homes and boats, the storm violently grounded the region into splinters, and devastated the lives of those living there. The seemingly unfor- giving Andrew left 16 dead, over 50,000 homeless, and dam- ages reportedly as high as $20 billion. Commissioner Tho- mas Gallagher said: "It's like someone put a nuclear bomb off in South Dade County." Then Presi- dent Bush, after trophe, wasted no million in federal dis- support of 27 gov- ernment agencies. Unfortunately, the aftermath of the storm demanded much more than just money. Leaving south Florida with little food, water, and other critical supplies, the storm also stripped the kindness and generosity from thousands of south Floridians. Gangs and mobs of looters rummaged through the area, helping themselves to what little was left. Eventually, President Bush was compelled to send over 14,000 federal and state troops into the frenzied and anarchic region to regain order and stability. Despite the extrodianarily hard times in the first half of the year,

Americans rushed millions of dollars in money and supplies to the dam- aged ar- eas. Even 2,000 miles away, thousands of people made a dif- ference. Several were dedi- cated to the vic- storm, in- cluding the f o o d drives conducted by Campus Ministry and the Halloween dance by PAC. Regis stu- dents were quick to help! Although the confusion and disarray after the storm had seemed to obliterate any sense of hope for the victims of Andrew, compas- sionate people around the country, including the students and faculty at Regis, revived it.

Back in Time

George Bush and his running mate Dan Quayle arrived at the GOP convention in Houston, and left as underdogs to the Clinton/Gore ticket. During the GOP convention, the impression the Bush strategists sought to convey was that the president was the true agent of change and that Clinton was slick and unreliable. For the Democrats, the economy - and Bush's perceived mishandling of it - remained the main message that they hammered again and again. After the Democratic convention, the Clinton/Gore ticket was far ahead in the polls.

Bill Clinton stepped into the national spotlight and won the nomination at the Democratic convention in a hot July week in New York City. Clinton, a former Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University and a graduate of Yale Law School, was governor of Arkansas when he decided to enter the national race. As his running mate, he chose Al Gore, who was elected to the House of Representatives at the age of 28, in his first campaign for public office. He was elected to the Senate in 1984. The rest is history.

Ross Perot made his first billion when the computer company he founded began selling stock. His presidential candidacy came to a stop when he abruptly quit the race in July. Then he got back into the race with about five weeks to go before Election Day. As his running mate, he chose James Stockdale, 68, a highly decorated former Navy fighter pilot and POW. Spending millions of dollars of his own money and relying on an army of "volunteers," the Perot campaign was off and running.

The Regis University Republicans Club is for those students and faculty members who have an interest in Republican politics and ideology. Its primary focus is to provide an organized setting which allows both students and faculty to become more politically involved on both a local and national level. This year's foremost project and activity was the 1992 Presidential Election. The club attended Vice President Quayle's rally in Colorado Springs, President Bush's rally in downtown Denver, and Barbara Bush's rally in south Denver. Additionally, the club participated in sign posting and telephoning potential Republican voters at the Colorado Republican Headquarters, in downtown Denver. For the Spring semester, the Regis University Republicans were active and visible on campus.

THE OSCARS

On March 29, 1993, viewers in 93 nations, and an audience estimated at 1 billion, watched the longest Oscar show on record. Here is a partial list of the winners of the 1992 Oscar Awards:

■ Bryan Steffen teaches the Fall Frolickers the lambada.

◆ Jen Julian grimaces as Roland Baumgardner steps on her foot.

◆ Sarah Eads and friends take time out for a drink.

◆ An intramural basketball team gets instruction from supervisor Trey Fitzgerald for the next play.

◆ Robert Kinnard tries to make a backwards basket while Kevin Lofton dances around the court.

◆ Marie Weiseth carefully concentrates on chasing the ball while playing a game of indoor soccer against the E.L.S. team.

◆ Jason Maroney prepares to serve the ball in an intramural volleyball game, supervised by Aurora Simentol.

Intramurals

For those students interested in playing intramural sports, Regis offers flag football, softball, volleyball, basketball, soccer and floor hockey. Student coordinator Dan Vinnola helps plan and run this sports program.

► Supervisor of soccer (and softball) Jeff Mortland discusses the game plan with soccer referee John Harbaugh. Such indoor soccer games were played in the ALC gym due to the cold January weather.

◆ Chris Hank waits eagerly for the call made by the floor hockey supervisor, Matt Gambs.

R.U.P.A.C.

◆ The cast of "Crimes of the Heart" bow for yet another encore.

◆ Jessica Willis and Julie Chase become the Michelle Pfeiffer of acting at Regis.

◆ Suzie Carlstead scoffs at the very idea of being in a kitchen, while Jessica Willis says, "Like it or not!"

◆ Joe Currat orders for Julie Chase something from Victoria's Secret.

The Regis University Performing Arts Club is sponsored by Fr. John Vowells, S.J. The club provides an organization for students interested in music, art, dance, and the performing arts. The 1993 school year held two major productions, "Crimes of the Heart," in the fall, and a remake of a woman's play in the spring.

◆ "Yes. I'm serious. You're in big trouble!"

the PUB

◆ Jeff Owens, Brannon McPherson and Brian Kearney get an early taste of senioritis.

◆ Tessa Davis, Gretchen Wodniak and Debbie Cahill sneer, "Of course I'm of age."

The PUB, also known as Regis' "watering hole" by PUB manager Tim O'Leary, is home to "good times and great laughs." While open for lunch seating, the PUB is most popular as the location for Thursday Thrills.

◆ "Party on, dude."

◆ Freshmen volleyball players relax off the court.

◆ Chris Horning is winning the drinking game. "Drink up, good buddy."

◆ "Look Ma, no hands!" Isn't that uncouth?

◆ Regis students are entranced by one of the many bands that played in the PUB. Come on, get excited!

Thursday Thrills

Every Thursday evening, the PUB hosts bands, dances, movies or guest speakers for Regis students. This popular activity is coordinated primarily by Peggy Stalp and Tim Louie.

■ Brian Kelly is stunned by the thick cloud of smoke in the PUB.

◆ Senator Gallagher points out where the ghost lives on the third floor of Main Hall. After this picture was taken, the whereabouts of the Senator were unknown.

Parents' Weekend

Parent's Weekend is a campus event held every fall. This year, the event was held on October 16. Nearly 200 families participated in the many activities.

Regis holds a Jesuit reception on Friday night, as well as a brunch on Sunday afternoon. The weekend is designed so that parents can participate in activities with their children. It is safe to say that fun was had by all.

◆ Rev. Bundy and his wife enjoy the weekend together.

◆ Dawn Dial and her twin sister.

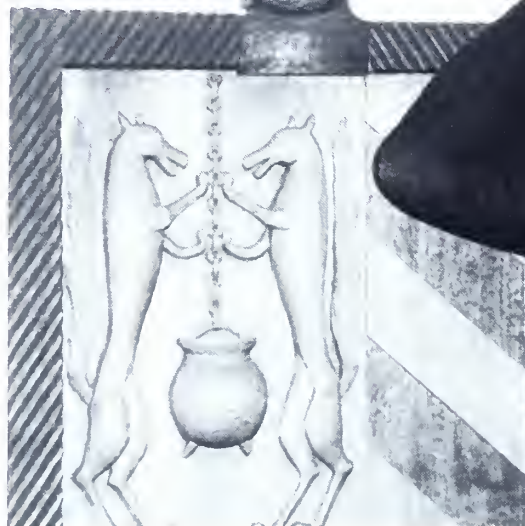

◆ Todd LaSala brags, "yes these are the lucky parents."

ADMINISTRATION

◆ SENATOR DENNIS GALLAGHER, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF COMMUNICATION, SHOWS HIS ALTER EGO.

◆ ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY, JIM CADELLO FLAUNTS HIS CONSERVATIVE SIDE.

◆ ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF ART, RICHARD STEPHENSON, CHECKS OVER STUDENTS' PAPERS.

Library

The Regis University Dayton Memorial Library is continuing a trend of constantly improving its services. The library is consistently moving ahead with new information services, such as InterNet, C.A.R.L, and C.D. Rom access. Although the library collects nearly 7000 new printed volumes annually, the library remains dedicated to the future. Access to its many computer systems can be reached in student's dorm rooms if they have a compatible computer.

Also, students and faculty are encouraged to make use of the library's Media Center, where many informative videos and the equipment needed to run them can be checked out and used in classes and student's rooms. In, 1995, the library will undergo major renovation, when a 15 million dollar upgrade is planned.

The library is closed only for ten holidays and its hours are: Monday - Thursday 8am to 11pm. Friday and Saturday 8am to 9pm, and Sundays from 2pm to 11pm.

◆ For those of you who don't know, this is the inside of our library.

◆ Caleb Symons takes care of the daily upkeep of the library.

◆ Troy Bates- "Hey Troy, who are you trying to kid?"

When the Archbishop of Canterbury proclaimed those magic words in 1981... "This is the stuff in which fairy tails are made," the world watched in awe as the shy, beautiful Diana Spencer became the Princess of Wales in an elaborate ceremony viewed by millions of people across the globe. Upon uttering the magic words, "I do," shy Di became an international Barbie Doll of the 80's and 90's. Who could have foretold that the elusive fairy tale would end so tragically?

After a heartbreaking, 11 year ordeal that lead the princess into deep depression and bouts with bulimia, the story came to a close during the winter of 1992 - 1993. When Queen Elizabeth proclaimed 1992 as "annus horribles" - the horrible year - she had never spoken words more true. The royal family splintered; gossip flourished regarding the breakup of Fergie and Andrew and the potential breakup of Charles and Diana. The gossip mongers in journalism feasted upon every breath of a scandal that thrived behind palace walls. Mercifully, it all came to a close. The Prince of Wales and his wife officially seperated, leaving the question as to the heir of the throne unanswered. Many people also questioned the legitimacy of the monarchy and the ability of Prince Charles to rule as king.

Diana's unhappy story has been told and re-told in countless biographies, however, Andrew Morton's Diana, Her True Story relived horrific tales of a severely depressed, unhappy, desperate and bulimic Princess of Wales. Her husband's flagrant affairs with Camillia Parker-Bowles were splashed across the magazine covers, and the princess could bear the farce no longer. Who would have guessed that this was the beautiful, smiling woman whose face had graced nearly every magazine cover in the United States.

Clearly, this was no longer the fairy tale that everyone once believed it to be. The tragedy of a loveless marriage has thrown the monarchy into an uproar. The unhappy story of this once glorified marriage has come to a final close, and so has the fairy tale.

The U.S. Marines arrived in Somalia on December 9, 1992. The starving African country was ravaged by famine and widespread looting of food from international relief agencies. The Marines offered a security force to insure safe food distribution.

The Rockies have now formed in both Colorado and Major League Baseball, ending the decades of suffering in "the time zone without a team." Those who have experienced baseball at its highest level know there is no other sport like it. They know that baseball is more than just a game, more than just a sport. It is a 150-year-old American tradition, that was just as alive in Colorado as it was in America. For most of the past 106 years, Denver has played host to some of the best minor league baseball in the country. During that span, the city developed the reputation as a great minor league baseball town. Although the team names, owners and playing fields came and went, one constant remained; Denver was a true baseball city completely deserving of a major league team.

Then it happened! On July 5th, 1991 at 10:40 a.m. Colorado officially entered the "majors." By becoming a member of major league baseball, Denver has entered a very exclusive club. It marked the end of a process that began nearly 30 years ago, with a series of attempts to bring major league baseball to Denver.

On June 16th, 1992, the first game in the history of the Rockies Organization was played in Bend, Oregon, between the Bend Rockies and the Boise Hawks. The Rockies won the game by a score of 6 to 4. This excitement could be felt all the way in Colorado. Another momentous moment in Rockies history was on November 17, 1992, when more than 20,000 baseball-hungry fans packed Curri-gan Hall to watch the draft live from New York. They celebrated as the Rockies picked players from the existing 26 major league teams, making them the first players on Colorado's first ever major league team.

Will the Colorado Rockies be successful? On April 22, 1992, the organization announced season ticket sales had reached 24,168, putting the Rockies in fourth place among all 28 major league teams. This was a very positive sign. Among the 10 previous expansion teams, the record for first-year home attendance was set by the 1977 Toronto Blue Jays with 1,701,052 fans in attendance. The Rockies would have to average 21,000 for 81 home dates to break that record. It would appear that they are well on their way.

When Rodney King was stopped by police on a Los Angeles freeway, police say he resisted them and was beaten. Someone videotaped the melee and released the tape to local television stations. It received national attention, and four white officers were charged in the beating of King, who was black. But when a jury found them innocent of any wrongdoing, three days of rioting hit Los Angeles. When it ended, 52 people were dead, 2,383 were injured, 18,807 were arrested, and the amount of property damage was estimated at $785 million.

Fueled by Kerosene, flames slipped out of a few windows of Ranch Apocalypse, were caught by 30-mph winds and quickly consumed the compound and 86 cult members, including 17 children. Smoke covered the prairie, punctuated by fireballs of exploding ammunition, leaving federal agents helpless as their 51 day seige ended in catastrophe.

The elongated tragedy gripped the nation, and had us glued to our television sets as the events in Waco, Texas developed. The story began unfolding in the middle of February, 1993, as authorities received information concerning illegal and dangerous activities in a religious compound led by David Koresh. As more information was gathered, it became clear to police that the members known as "Davidians" were harboring illegal weapons. The police also suspected that polygamy and child abuse were occurring regularly. Finally, on February 28th, approximately 100 federal agents stormed the compound. To their haunting surprise, members of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms (ATF) were shot dead in a shoot-out.

On day 2, the government called military vehicles to the scene. It became apparent that the Davidians, led by Koresh, were not going to allow federal agents into their complex; the situation was intense. The situation took a more desperate turn when the lives of more than 100 people, including the children, were taken into account. The FBI tried to avoid disaster, but the mission was clearly to uphold the law. Inside, the Davidians believed they answered to a higher authority. To his followers, David Koresh, a 33 year old high school dropout, was known as the Lamb of God.

During the 51 days of deceptions and lies, Koresh had broken numerous promises to give up, as he stated "I will surrender after I hear from God." Unfortunately, he never heard from God, and never surrendered. Finally, Attorney General Janet Reno ordered the M-1A1 Abraham tanks to ram holes in the side of the compound at 4 am on April 19. The plan was to pump gas into the compound to drive the members out. Instead, smoke and fire became visible.

In the end 86 people, including the 17 children, burned to death. The Lamb of God had led his flock to a violent death.

The beauty of Colorado's mountains attracts many different kinds of people: skiers, hikers and even the pope. Yes, the splendid magnificence of the Rocky Mountains engages Pope John Paul II, hence, last year on Palm Sunday, he announced his plans of coming to Denver for World Youth Day 1993.

World Youth Day originated 10 years ago when the pope invited the youth to join him for the conclusion of the Church's of Reconciliation Holy Week gan. Pope II enjoys with children challenges make a bet-row, hence cept of Youth Day. gatherings in Rome,

Holy Year ation as 1984 be-John Paul working and he them to ter tomor-the con-Worl P a s t have been Argentina,

Spain and Poland. The theme for the international celebration is "I came that they may live and have it to the fullest."

The opening mass for world Youth Day is Wednesday evening, August 11. A welcoming ceremony at Denver's Mile High Stadium is planned for the following day when Pope John Paul II arrives. The next three days will include prayer, time for confession, catechesis, masses and cultural events. The pope will hold a prayer vigil Saturday, August 14. The event will close on August 15, the Feast of Assumption, with the pope presiding at a Eucharistic celebration.

The United States Secret Service will offer the pope 24 hour protection. The service will study the sites the pope is to visit before he arrives as to protect him to the best of their capabilities.

This journey was originally planned solely as a trip to Denver, but it has now expanded to cover three countries: Jamaica, Mexico and the United States. Speculations arise saying Pope John Paul II, who loves to hike, will spend several days in the mountains, perhaps at St. Malo Retreat in Estes Park, before traveling to Denver.

The Faith and Justice lecture series consisted of a number of guest speakers who presented thought provoking lectures to many Regis students. The topics varied, but all focused on faith and value decisions in present day American society. These discussions were then incorporated into the election process which took place in the fall. The nine lecture series was directed by Regis student Christina Narracci.

Time is Too Slow for those who Wait,
Too Swift for those who Fear,
Too Long for those who Grieve,
Too Short for those who Rejoice,
But for those who Love
Time is not.
- Henry Van Dyke

■ Senator Gallagher proclaims to the world that he voted... WOW!

■ Christina Narracci scoffs at Ed Horejs as he wallows in the Republicans' loss of power.

◆ Scott O'Bryan, Bill Mrochek, Joy King, and Heather Baniszewski show their support for the Perot - Stockdale ticket.

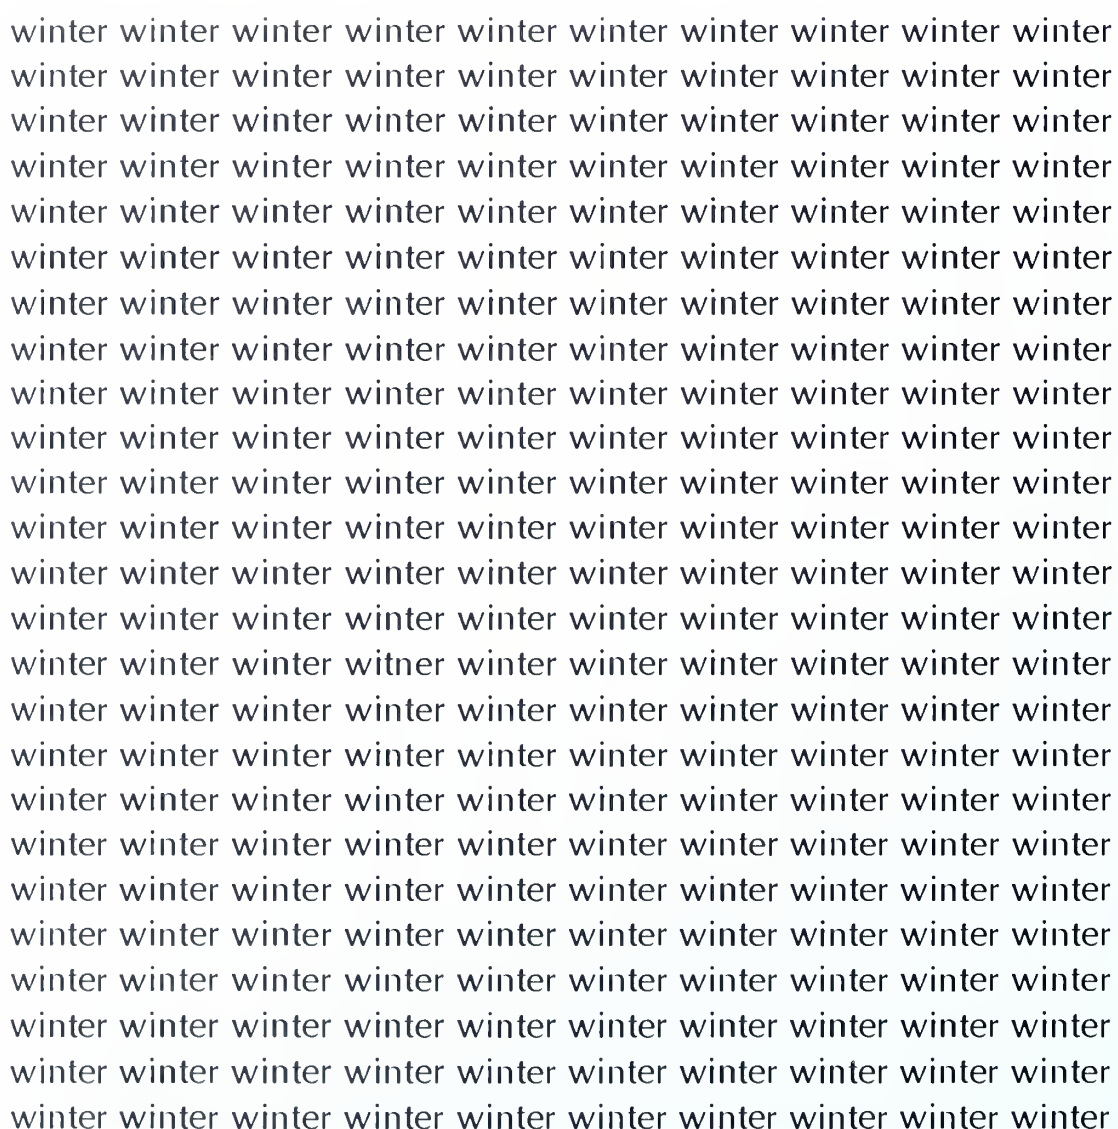

Faith and Justice

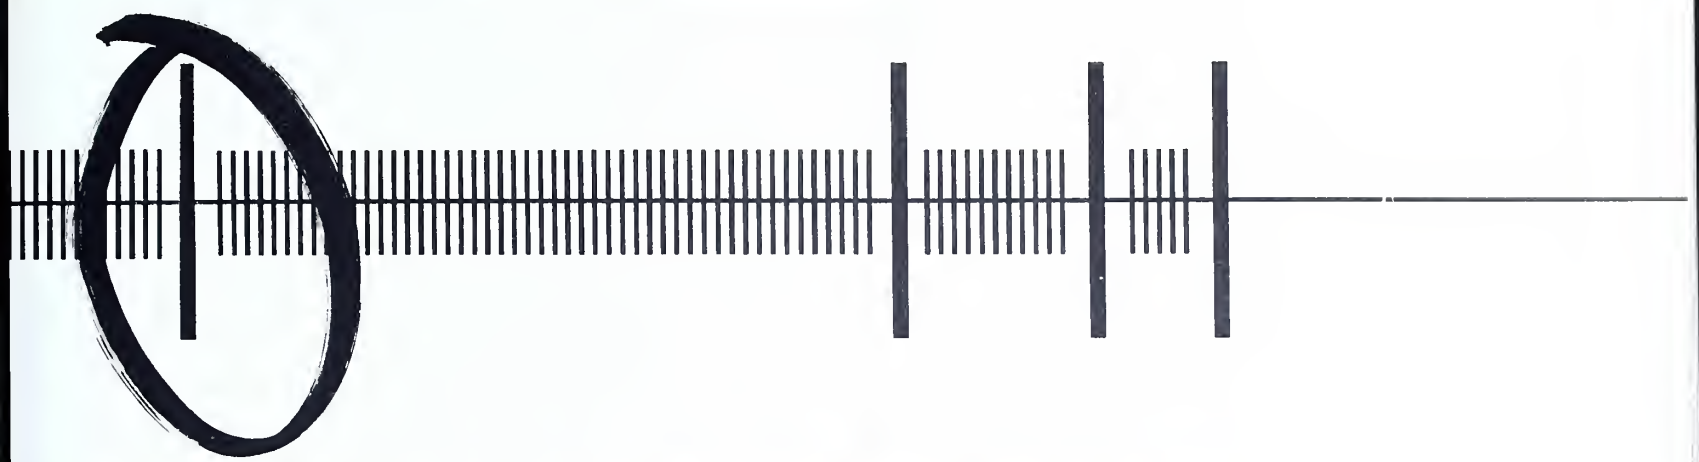

◆ Janellen Hill-Smith moderated the "Sex, Lies and Election" coverage which discussed the media coverage of the presidential campaign. Many Faith and Justice events were held in the chapel.

◆ Mike Keefe, the political cartoonist for the Denver Post, John Ferrugia, former CBS White House correspondent and current KMGH news anchor and investigative reporter, and Fred Brown, the political editor of the Post, were the panel for the discussion of press coverage on the elections.

Wintertime nighs;
But my breavement-
pain
It cannot bring again:
Twice no one dies.

Flower-petals flee;
But, since it once hath been,
No more that severing
scene
Can harrow me.

Birds faint in dread:
I shall not lose old
strength
In the lone frost's black length:
Strength long since fled!

Leaves freeze to dun; But friends can not turn cold
This season as of old
For him with none.

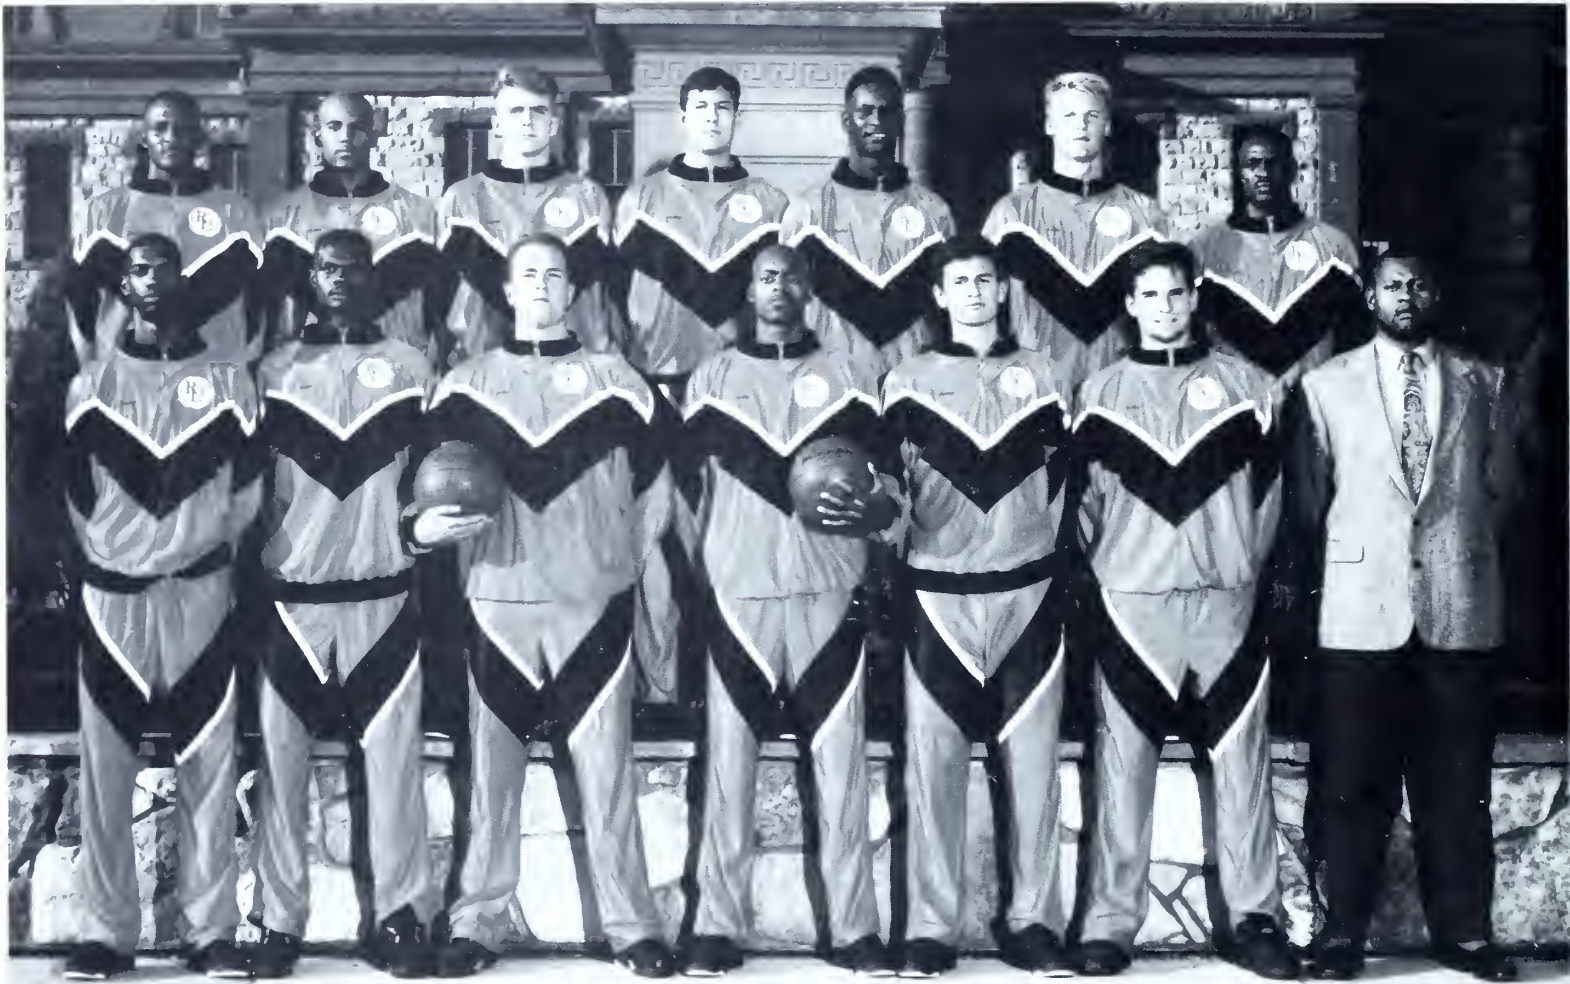

Tempests may scath;
But love can not make smart
Again this year his heart
Who no heart hath..

Black is night's cope; But death will not appal
One who, past doubtings
all,
Waits in unhope.

Marriott

◆ "Hey! This Dr. Pepper is flat!"

■ Marriott cafeteria employee, Assunta Ferraro, demonstrates just how scrumptious is the Main Event.

Innovation and change are words that are most appropriate when discussing the campus food program for the 1992-1993 school year at Marriott. Gary Coyle, Director of Marriott at Regis, has focused his attention on student feedback—"Director's Dinners"—and generally making dining at Marriott unique and enjoyable. To achieve this kind of atmosphere, Marriott has created the Wellness Program, ethnic dinners and theme nights. Additionally, prior to the fall semester, Marriott underwent major renovations to make the facilities more attractive and fun. The Marriott cafeteria is open 365 days a year.

Romero House

The Romero House is a Campus Life project designed to allow students to live in a faith community and to work in the neighborhood. The house consists of five students, one Jesuit priest, and one house manager. The students must go through an application and interview process in order to be accepted into this program. The students frequently work at Our Lady of Guadalupe church, five miles from Regis, where they teach confirmation classes and administer eucharistic ministry (communion). The Regis nursing students that live in the house are trying to start a health clinic in the neighborhood.

What is time? The shadow on the dial, the striking of the clock, the running of the sand, day and night, summer and winter, months, years, centuries-these are but arbitrary and outward signs, the measure of Time, not Time itself. Time is the Life of the soul.

-Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

■ Regis alumnae Mike McManus answers the community's questions about the Romero House at the open house.

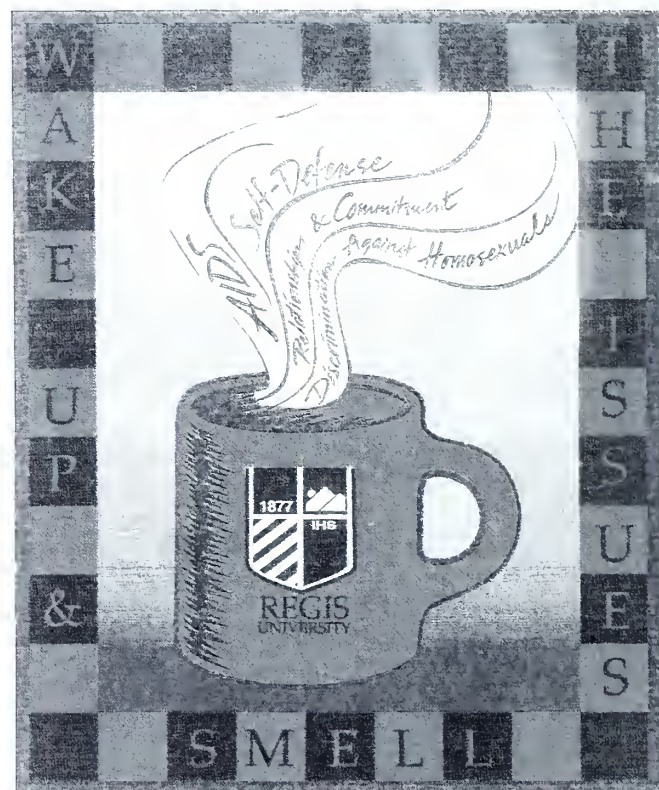

◆ Some of the house residents, Hung Pham, Luis Diaz, Lauri Harris, and Christy Andriolo, say, "No really, we like all these people in our home."

◆ Dr. Jeff Ferrell socializes at the open house. Faculty and administration support helps the project's success.

■ Lauri Harris and Chris Pramuk invite the community into the house the residents and assorted school organizations have worked on for many hours.

◆ Father Vince O'Flaherty, the Jesuit priest who lives in the Romero House says, "Welcome!"

The Hall Governing Board (HGB) at Regis is an integral link between residents in the dorms and student activities on and off campus. Activity and promotion coordinators are responsible for bringing all these events to the students. The group holds a meeting once a week in each dorm, where students ask questions and give comments regarding their dorm life. The group also serves as a link between the students in the dorms and the Campus Life staff. Besides sponsoring parties, HGB is responsible for creating a "community" among Regis students living in the dorms.

Hall Activities

The residence halls at Regis are designed to help students adapt quickly to life at Regis. The students enjoy participating in many activities, including Coors Brewery tours, movies, and bungee jumping. These activities help the students make friends and get to know those they live with. Since Regis is a relatively small school, almost everyone on campus knows everyone else. Frequent hall meetings give students the opportunity to raise questions and concerns regarding their new homes. It is this "personal" factor that makes living in the dorms so much fun.

Winter semester, 1993, held the second annual Media Day. Coordinated by senior communications workshop Kendra Mondragon, Media Day-January 27th- hosted five informational workshops for education for the media-interested students and for entertainment.

Alas! how swift the moments fly!
How flash the years along!
Scarce here, yet gone already by,
The burden of a song.
See childhood, youth, and manhood pass,
And age with furrowed brow;
Time was-Time shall be- drain the glass-
But where in Time is now?

Spring, The Sweet Spring

Spring, the sweet spring, is the year's pleasant king
Then blooms each thing, then maids dance in a ring
Cold doth not sting, the pretty birds do sing:
Cockoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo!

The palm and may make country houses gay,
Lambs frisk and play, the shepherds pipe all day,
And we hear aye birds tune this merry lay:
Cockoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo!

The fields breathe sweet, the daisies kiss our feet,
Young lovers meet, old wives a-sunning sit,
In every street these tunes our ears do greet:
Cockoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo!
Spring, the sweet spring!

Skiing

It is common knowledge that many students come to Regis just for the skiing. Since Regis is one of the closest universities to the mountains, it is no wonder a common nickname for the school is Skigis. The Ranger thought it was time to dedicate some yearbook space to this ever popular sport. So here are just a few Regis students doing what they do best.

❖ From the vintage collection, Tom Kelly shows the form that made him famous at an early age.

❖ Rick Parker clears the catch-fence without a problem.

❖ Mike Crawford, unaware that the large bear that ate his friend is lurking just out of view of the camera, catches some rays at Heavenly Valley, CA.

❖ E. J. Feulner takes the plunge over the vertical entrance into Corbet's Colouir at Jackson Hole.

❖ A happy group of skiers are about to tear up Copper Mountain.

■ Tom Kelly shows how form improves with age as he tackles the "linked recoveries" at Vail.

◆ A crazy freshman tries to imitate Glen Plake by practicing his high speed aerodynamic tuck.

■ E. J. Feulner prepares to land after experiencing at least 30 feet of air at Jackson Hole.

◆ Pierson Callahan, Scott Beaudoin, and some friends peer over the edge as they pick their lines into Corbet's.

◆ Rick Parker rips a massive daffy off "the jump" at Vail. "Mr. Parker, this is Vail Tower, you are cleared to land."

Lacrosse

◆ Co-captain, defenseman E. J. Feulner eludes a UNC attackman and completes a pass igniting a fast break off the clear.

■ Midfielders Marc Bonacci and Seamus Daley (34) gang up on a UNC defenseman, stripping away the ball.

For the first time in the 116 year history of Regis, members of the school community were able to be spectators at an exciting contact sport here on campus. Fans were constantly intrigued by the strange sport called lacrosse. A very popular sport back east, the number of lacrosse players is constantly increasing west of the Mississippi, where the game is growing in popularity. It is this popularity that encouraged Regis administration officials to admit that now would be the perfect time to introduce a new sport to the community.

The Regis lax team is anchored by three co-captains, attackman Sean Breen, goalie Chris Usher, and defenseman E. J. Feulner, all of whom have extensive playing experience on the east coast. Other experienced players making their mark on the inaugural team are Seamus Daley and Brian Kelly from Chicago, Lou Ficco, who played at Littleton High School, and Brad Willett from Connecticut. Many first year players proved invaluable to the team as they were called upon to step up and make their first ever passes on the high powered fields of NCAA college lacrosse programs.

Coach Tom Lion proved to be the deciding factor in the success of the team. Coming to Colorado from Australia where he played pro lacrosse for two years, and having played at the powerhouse Penn State University he brought a tremendous amount of energy and talent to this young team. Without his guidance, the Regis Lacrosse program would have floundered and probably died.

The team suffered many losses, which can be expected from a first year team, but that will change in the future when experienced players come to Regis bringing a tremendous amount of ability. With these additions, the future of Regis Lacrosse looks very bright.

◆ Coach Tom Lion shares some encouraging words with his team.

◆ Goalie Chris Usher makes yet another save as Lou Ficco comes to his help.

◆ The powerful Regis attack demonstrates the motion offense.

◆ Defenseman Lou Ficco is ready to check back into the game.

B a c k I n T i m e

Two rappers are turning teen-age fashion inside out. The trendy new look being popularized by the duo Kris Kross is to wear clothes backward, labels out. It's called Kross-dressing. Their latest hit record, "Warm It Up," steadily inched its way up the charts. Kris Kross members Kris Smith and Kris Kelly, both 13, wear their clothes back-to-front on the cover of their album "Totally Krossed Out."

Garth Brooks, whose introspective songs and rousing concerts lifted country music to new heights, was voted top entertainer by his peers for the second year in a row in 1992. The 30-year-old superstar managed to top both the country and the pop charts with his 9-million-selling album "Ropin' the Wind." The soft spoken singer from Oklahoma says he spent more time in his youth listening to Elton John and James Taylor than emulating Hank Williams and Merle Haggard.

The next Elvis? That's what some people are calling Billy Ray Cyrus. The 30-year-old singer, who dresses in blue jeans with an American flag on the right rear pocket, hit it big with his rollicking single "Achy Breaky Heart." He combs his long, brown hair back into a drooping ponytail, which he ceremoniously unties during his performances. His album "Some Gave All," is a blend of country, blues, and rock 'n' roll. He wrote six of the songs, including the title song, which is a poignant ballad that salutes Vietnam veterans.

Rapper Ice-T ignited a furor with his song "Cop Killer." Ice-T said the controversial song was a warning to the Los Angeles police, whom he accused of brutality, specifically he was referring to the videotaped police beating of Rodney King and its aftermath of riots. However, the singer later removed the song from his "Body Count" album after law enforcement officials and others criticized Time for allowing the song to be distributed on the company's record label.

The sleek, fashionable foursome En Vogue recently released their second album "Funky Divas," a lively followup to their 1990 debut, "Born To Sing." Although they sometimes are referred to as the "Supremes of the '90's," no one grabs center stage. Terry Ellis, Dawn Robinson, Cindy Herron and Maxine Jones take turns singing lead and adding their trademark harmonies. Their rich, layered sound graces several styles on Funky Divas, from hip hop and rhythm and blues to rap and rock.

Campus Ministry

Campus Ministry provides opportunities for students to share time and talent with others and develop and nourish their mind and spirit. Campus Ministers are available for those who would like to talk about their journey with God or deepen their spiritual awareness. Campus Ministry offers student internships and work study positions where students receive financial support for their service to the community. There are also Liturgical Minister positions available. Early each semester, students may sign up to serve as Eucharistic Ministers, lectors, musicians, and ushers. To promote volunteer programs and activities, Campus Ministry works in conjunction with the Director of Community Service to acquaint students with volunteer service opportunities.

Campus Ministry puts special energy and planning into its liturgies and celebrations for the Regis community.

Regis University Forensics is an intercollegiate, competitive and nationally ranked team that travels throughout the fall and spring semesters. The team competed in nine tournaments this year, including the National Individual Events tournament in Houston, Texas. Regis is a prominent member of District 9 Forensics, which consists of neighboring state universities. The team competed in individual events, including, After Dinner Speaking, Persuasive, Informative, Communication Analysis, Extemporaneous Speaking, Impromptu Speaking, Poetry Interpretation, Dramatic Interpretation, Prose Interpretation, and Duo Interpretation.

Under the direction and coaching of Janet Podgurski and Dr. John Muth, the team did quite well this year. All members of the team qualified at the District 9 National Qualifying Tournament in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and were eligible for national competition in individual events.

Forensics advisor, Dr. John Muth, while being a joker, sometimes expresses his true serious self.

Graduation

Every May a class of seniors has toiled, sweated, played and ended one chapter in their lives and beginning another. They look around them and see the dorms they lived in, the buildings they learned in, the edifice they ate in and the grass they goofed around on. Memories flood into their minds and they accept as they remember the great times they had at Regis. But that may be changing. The administration feels that it would be a good idea to move the graduation ceremony off campus. The reasoning behind logical, but basically unwanted. If it rains on graduation day money is moved into the families and give to their families and attending. Apparently there is moved inside admitted during who can upset. So de-represents. If that is true, we need this campus to reach with us to a higher level of community. This is not a political pipedream that we have conjured up. We see this higher level as an expectation of ourselves and students with our expectations and our goals for ourselves, student government and Regis as a whole. However, we are not in these positions to meet personal agendas. We have been elected to these service by you, our constituents. We plan to serve this we can. Let me just take of those people, be, to please would All C- not have a new team and now. The Executive Board were elected on April 2. We are in hopes of even better year. The Executive Board will carry on in at Regis for quite a while. Last year's board was responsible for the first Martin Luther King Day celebration, a diligent accomplishment of many student goals and cohesive student government. For their service to Regis, we all owe them a great deal of gratitude. As I told the new board at our retreat, we will not be just like the 1993 Executive Board. We will push the same goals. - ◆ Which is easier to write, English or Japanese?

- ◆ The International Fair promotes cultural understanding.
- ◆ Hard at work, ELS students listen to and read English.

The International Host position is designed to enhance the relationship between the students of Regis and the students of the English Language School (ELS). Its primary focus is the intercultural sharing of ideas and lifestyles between American students and students from other countries. This goal is achieved through living and learning together for the enhancement of the ELS student as well as the the Regis community. Hosts are sophomores, juniors, and seniors who live in West Hall.

The Program Activities Council (PAC), under the leadership of Dominica Dezzutti, had a productive year. PAC is responsible for programming all campus events. PAC kicked off the Welcome Back event with several bands playing in the quad.

According to Dezzutti, "PAC has had the most successful film series in history featuring movies like: Scent of a Woman, The Bodyguard, Beauty and the Beast, and many others."

PAC opened Wake Up Regis Week to create sexual awareness on campus, while promoting the strong Jesuit values and traditions at the same time.

During the course of the school year, PAC sponsored a number of off campus activities such as Bungee Jumping, Snowmobiling, and skydiving - all set up and executed with brilliance.

Two spring break trips were planned. Students could choose between Cabo San Lucas, Mexico, and a ski trip to Steamboat. An excellent time was had by all.

Every Thursday night at 9:00 p. m. in the Ranger Pub, Thursday Thrills were held. They ranged from Rock-N-Roll bands to Reggae Night to knee-slapping comedians. Regis' very own Art - the D. J. - Blumeyer.

Two of the successful dances put on by PAC were Fall Frolic and Winter Ball. "This is the most successful PAC we have ever had," exclaimed Dezzutti.

Good Luck!

My Son,

We were blessed with a boy, a brand new son,
On that beautiful day, back in seventy-one.
A gift from God, a lifetime treasure,
One who would bring us so much pleasure.

You have given me no heartache, in the time that has come to pass,
You are a fine young man, who has compassion, dignity, and class.
You have helped us through the bad times, filled with trouble and with strife
For this alone I pray, you will reach your goal in life.

I know if daddy's watching, gazing on us here,
I know he could not help, but shed a lonely tear.
I know he would look with pride, on which was once his baby boy,
I know he will be sharing, our happiness and joy.

Your father, sister, and your mother watched you as you grew,
Growing pains you overcame, and maintained a course so true.
I look at you and glow with pride, at the man you have now become
Our little treasure has grown into, a loving son.

I remember that day in eighty four, when daddy passed away,
You asked me how we would manage now upon that fateful day.
From that day on, I saw the change, you grew up overnight,
You became my strength, to carry on and help me through my plight.

You were a hit in the Arab league

the poor professors had no chance at all.

So now you're off to try law school

But just one thing before you go please make ten copies of this memo and deliver them through sleet and snow.

The Road Not Taken

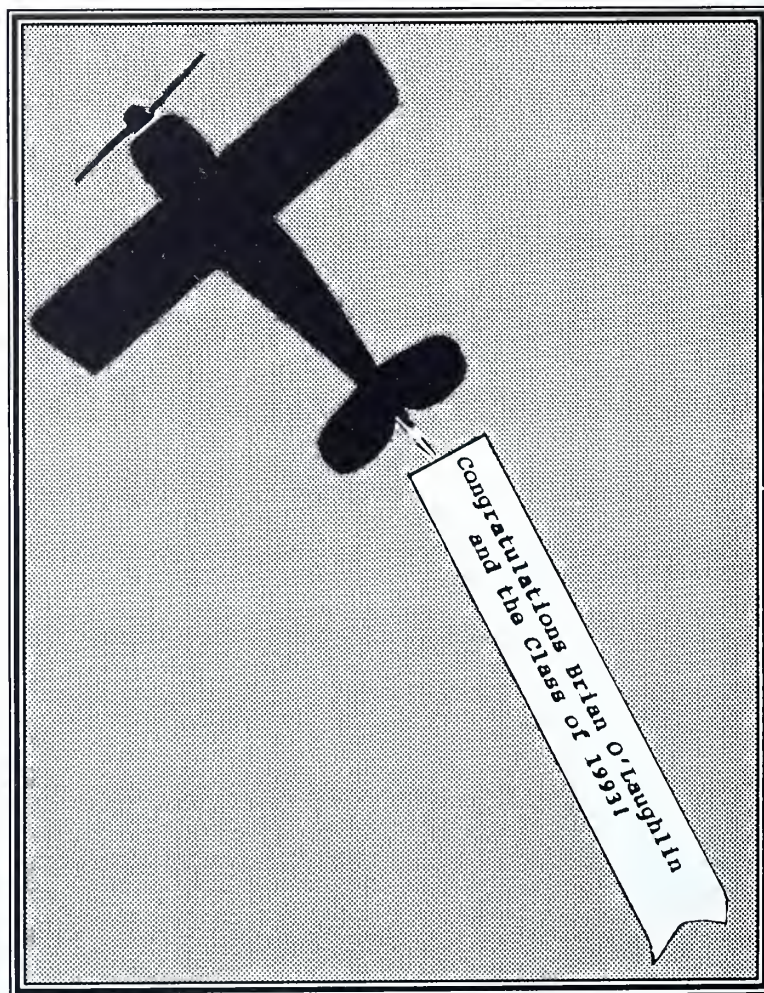

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that, the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

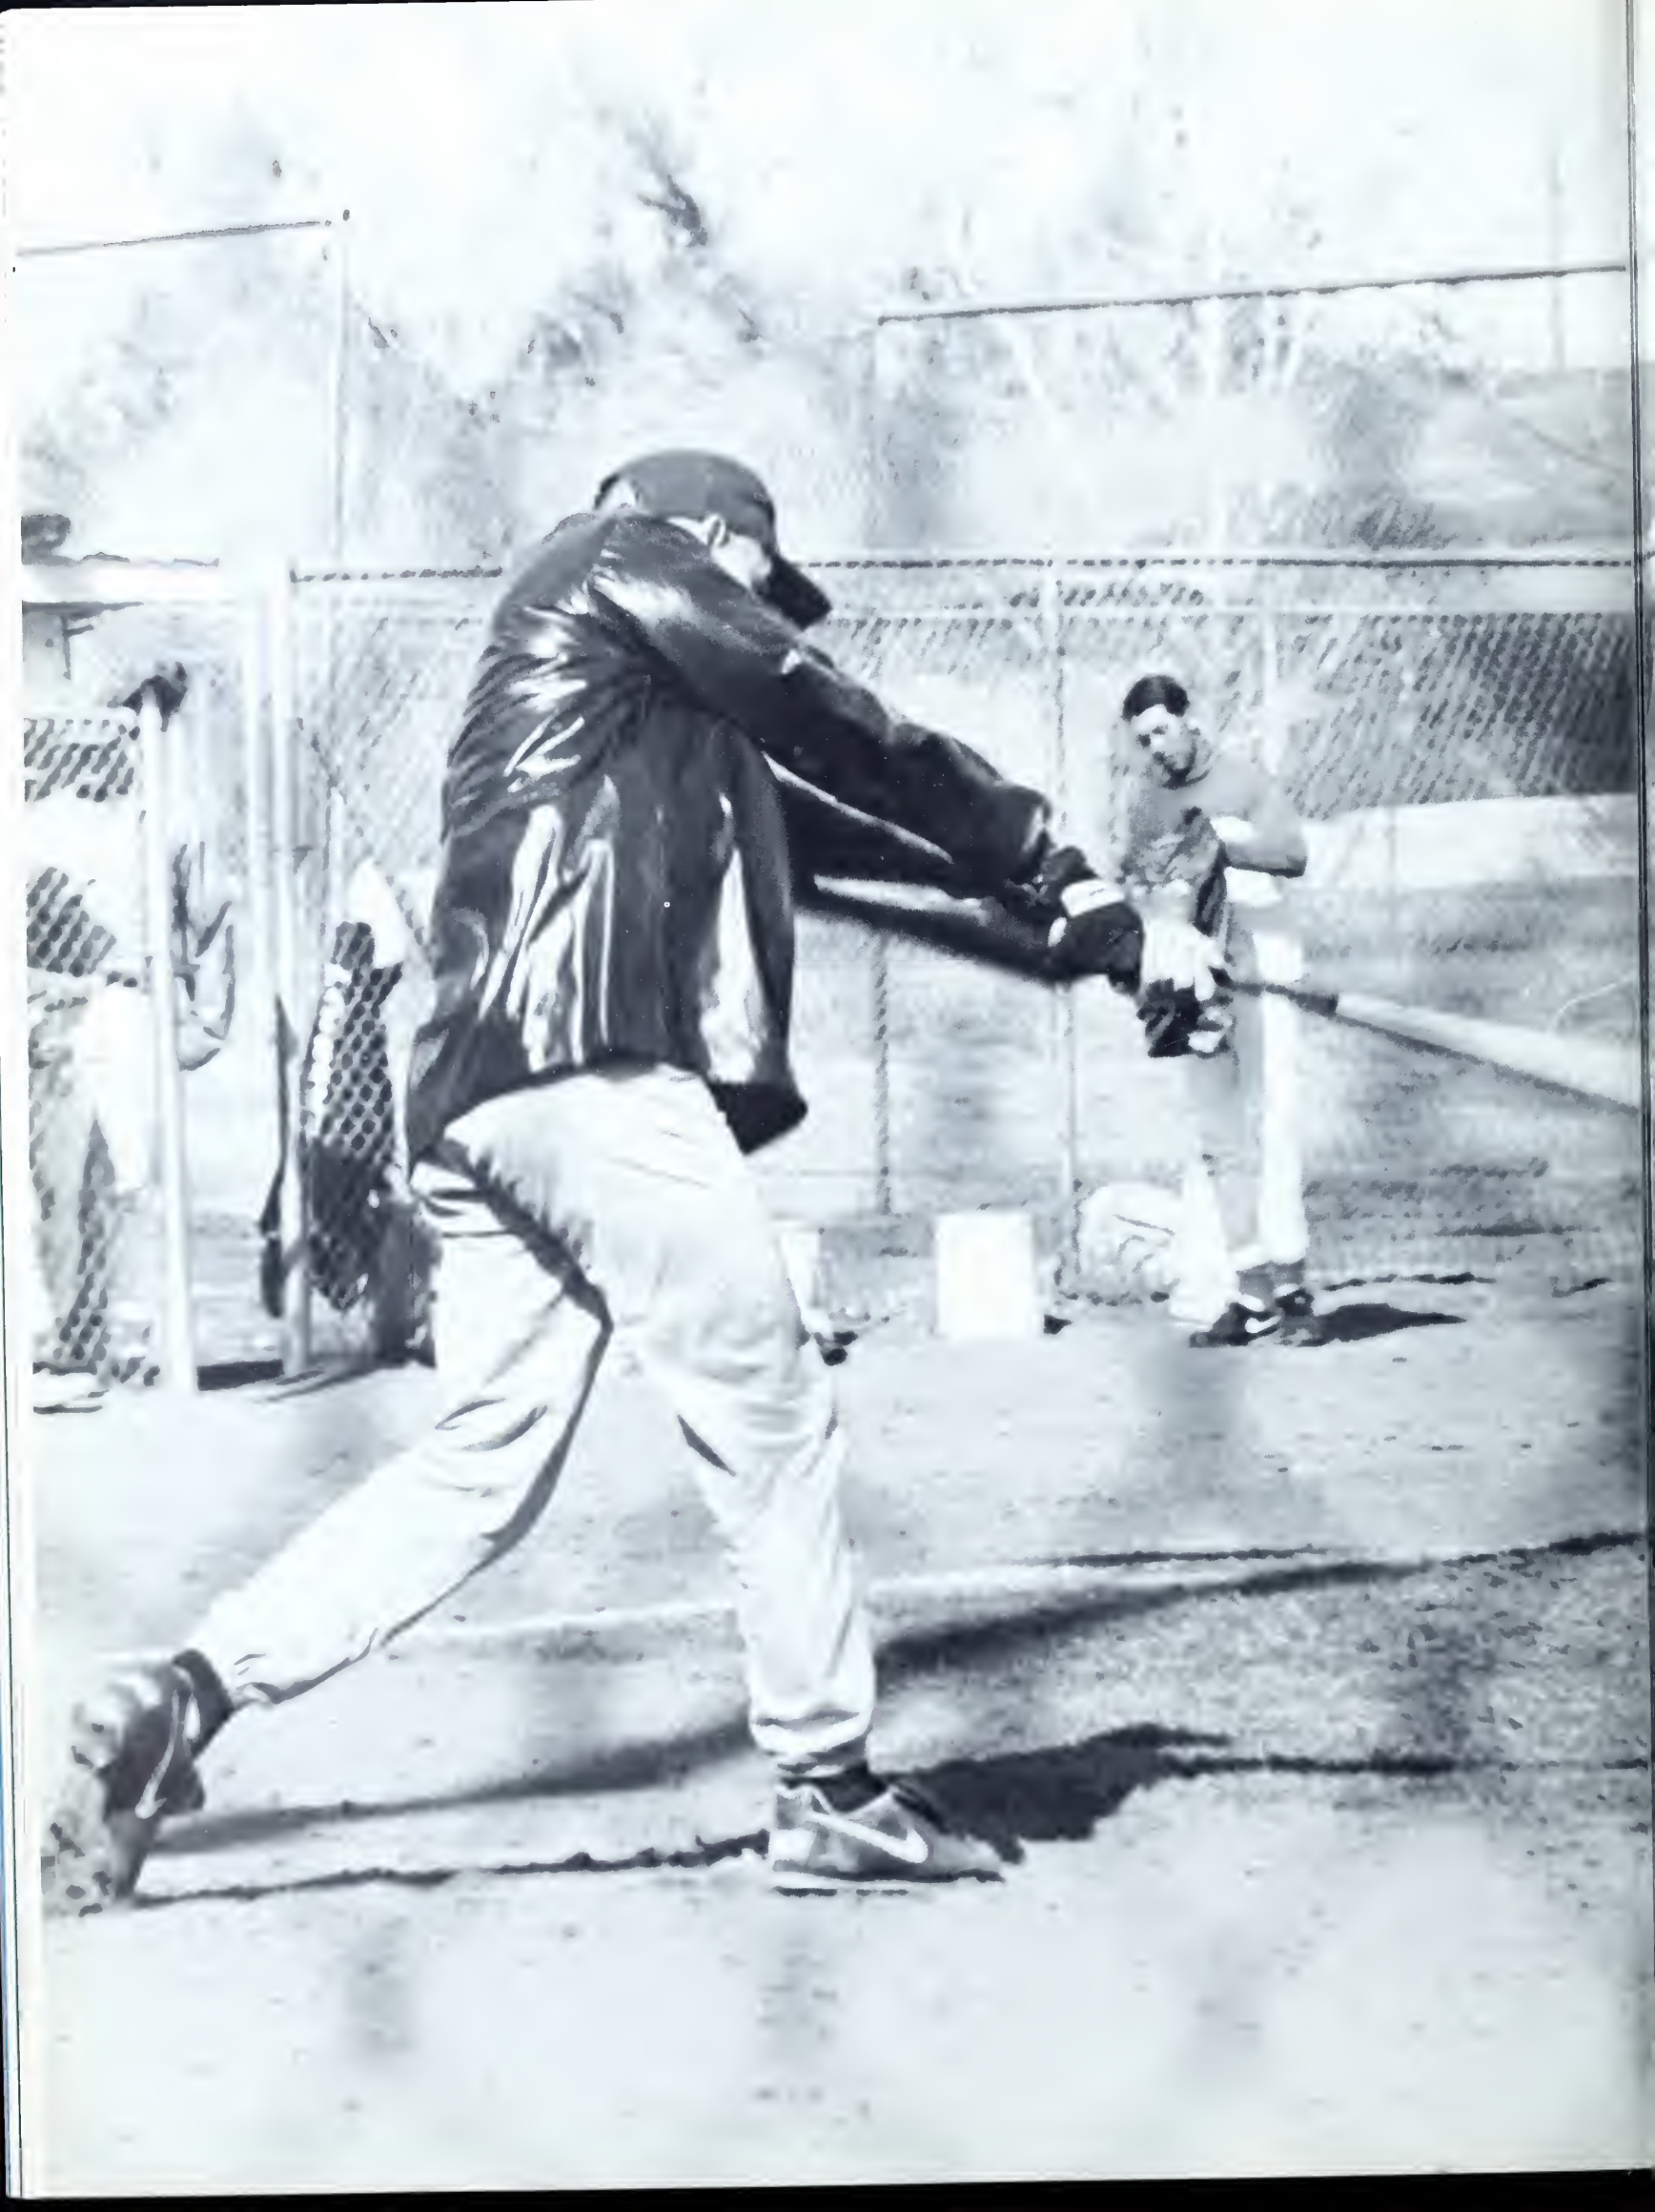

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Remember

Remember me when I am gone away,
Gone far away into the
silent land;
when you can no more
hold me by the hand,
Nor I half turn to go yet turning stay.

Remember me when no
more day by day
You tell me of our future that you planned:
Only remember me; you understand

It will be too late to counsel then or pray.
Yet if you should forget
for a while

And afterwards
remember, do not grieve:
For if the darkness and corruption leave
A vestage of the thoughts that once I had,
Better by far you should
forget and smile
Than that you should remember and be sad.

IF-

“BROTHER SQUARE-TOES” - REWARDS AND FAIRIES

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream - and not make dreams your master;
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-put tools:

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings - nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And - which is more - you'll be a Man, my son!
